CANCELLATION AND REFUND POLICY

All requests for refunds must be received in writing. Cancellations faxed or postmarked before October 31, 2011 will receive a full refund. No refunds will be given for cancellations made after October 31, 2011.

Rule on inappropriate behaviour and its consequence

A participant of the IALL courses, either an attendee or a speaker, may be excluded from the venue and denied further access whenever the President and Board Members of IALL, after consultation with the Local Planning Committee, conclude that continuation of his or her presence at sessions and other activities causes a risk or is a disturbance to individual persons or the group in its entirety, because of inappropriate behaviour, disruptive conduct or any other misbehaviour. Any decision by the aforementioned officials is final and without appeal. Under circumstances where a conference delegate has been excluded from the conference venue and denied further access, the International Association of Law Libraries will not refund conference registration fees, hotel, travel, meals or other expenses associated with attending the annual meeting. Completion of Registration for and attendance at the IALL Annual Meeting and Conference constitutes full acceptance of these terms and conditions by the registering member, his or her guests, or his or her accompanying persons.
